In Memoriam

Mr. Ralph Quever

We miss the quiet man. He always had a friendly smile and a word of greeting for each of us. He was a kind man who gave encouragement and sympathy where needed. He moved through life unassumingly and unpretentiously, respecting his fellow man and trusting in his God. We are probably better people because he walked among us for a while.

"Blessed are the meek
For they shall inherit the earth."

The Badgers battled for the realization of their M & O conference championship dreams, just within their grasp, as the fans anxiously watched the clock. With two seconds to go, Randy Molle, No. 77, and Roger Allen, No. 66, (pictured below) stopped Peshtigo's Bruce Anderson on the 2 yard line in the best play of the season. The play is about Frankey Johnson, a normal boy who was on the school basketball team, got passing grades, and liked the "girl next door" - that is, until he met pretty Stella. Frankey got a job selling safety pins for money to escort Stella to all the places she liked to go. The basketball captain and the girl next door plot to have a boy masquerade as a school teacher to convince Frankey's father that the job interfered with his studies. Mr. Johnson, however, overhears the plan and teaches the conspirators a lesson.

"On the Carpet"

Bert buys his wife Vi a carpet for her birthday - only to find he has remembered the right date, but the wrong month. Vi's friends get in the way while Bert tries in vain to tack down the rug. One friend hints that Bert only bought the rug to meet the glamorous sales clerk. Bert turns on his tormentors, but his tirade is interrupted by a call from the red-head. He discovers that his wife understands and appreciates him after all.
